

Adjunct Faculty for Online M.Ed. Programs in the Field of Computer Science

The Gordon College Herschend School of Education seeks to expand our pool of part-time adjunct faculty to teach online coursework in M.Ed. programs leading to initial licensure in Digital Literacy and Computer Science. We are particularly interested in faculty with expertise in computer science content such as, object-oriented software development, data structures and algorithms, operating systems, networks, databases, and encryption

Responsibilities:

- Teach remotely: online synchronous or asynchronous graduate coursework in areas of expertise;
- Submit up to date syllabi prior to each session;
- Hold online office hours by appointment as requested by students; and
- Provide timely feedback on course assignments.

Qualifications of the Ideal Candidate:

- A commitment to the Christian mission of the college;
- Earned Ed.D. or Ph.D. in a related field preferred; Earned M.S., M.Ed., or Ed.S. considered.

Gordon College's School of Education offers both undergraduate and graduate programs allowing its 600 plus students to earn initial and professional licenses for teaching and administration through targeted training programs and personalized advising. Graduate programs are offered primarily online through both synchronous and asynchronous delivery. Gordon is nationally recognized for preparing teachers in the science of reading instruction, and local school districts also recognize Gordon for its excellence in teacher and administrator preparation.

Gordon College is a Christian liberal arts college located in Massachusetts on Boston's North Shore, a beautiful coastal area with easy access to Boston. The Gordon College community has made a commitment to pursuing shalom, a right ordering of relationships and actions resulting in the affirmation of human dignity and the flourishing of community. We are interested in candidates who can help us live out this commitment through research and practice.
